Erotic Desensitization and Revision, Realities of Our Current Sexual World

Co-Facilitators

Linda Weiner, MSW, LCSW, AASECT Certified Sex Therapist, Certified Supervisor, CE Provider

Heather Raznick, MSW, LCSW, AASECT Certified Sex Therapist

Purpose

The American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors and Therapists (AASECT) requires the completion of an attitudes/values training experience as part of the requirements for certification. Certification candidates most often satisfy this requirement by participating in a Sexual Attitude Reassessment (SAR) Workshop.

Description

A SAR is a process-oriented seminar that uses lecture, media, experiential methods, activities and small group discussions. The objective of a SAR is to give participants the opportunity to explore their attitudes, values, feelings and beliefs about sexuality and how these impact their professional interactions. A SAR is not a traditional academic experience to disseminate cognitive information, nor is it psychotherapy directed toward the resolution of personal problems. It is a highly personal, internal exploration that will be different for each participant. To meet AASECT standards, a SAR must be a minimum of 10 hours in length.
